THIS RECORD IS

LOVINGLY DEDICATED

FATHER, MOTHER, IF I THEE FORGET
ASHAMED LET ME FOREVER BE
MAY MY HEAD BE DOWNWARD CAST
UNTIL THROUGH LOVE, I CAN LOOK TO THEE

From the gravestone of Francis Stebbins (249) who died in 1792.

SO BRITTLE IS THE STATE OF MAN
SO SOON IT DOTH DECAY
SO ALL THE GLORY OF THIS WORLD
MUST FADE AND PASS AWAY

By the author in 1953.

AH, BUT SHINE, THAT GLORY WHILE IT MAY
LOOKING ON TO A BRIGHTER DAY
THAT THE MEMORY OF THOSE LOVED ONES MAY LIVE
TO BRIGHTEN THE DIMMING PAST
THEIR LIVES TO GUIDE US ON OUR WAY
ALL THIS RECORD I FREELY GIVE
TO LIVE IN THE HEARTS OF THOSE YET TO COME
THAT NOT ONE SHALL DIE OR FADE
INTO A FORGOTTEN PAST.

INTRODUCTION

Almost fifty years have passed since the publication of the Stebbins Family Genealogy by Greenlee, a work unexcelled by any other genealogical record, and of such high quality that it should inspire the Stebbins descendants with a real desire to record all additional family history down to the present date, and to have such records available to any one, who may undertake the compiling of a complete genealogy of all the Stebbins lines.

The Author of this record regrets his inability to compile such a work of the entire family, and hopes that the contents of this little volume will find its place in such a publication. To facilitate its accomplishment, the individual numbers and generation numbers are the same as in the Greenlee Stebbins Genealogy. Those born since are preceded by a dash —. All dates of the new members are as given by each family and are as correct as possible. It is regretable that some relatives did not care to reply to my inquiry for data.

Since the Stebbins and Webster genealogies are both out of print, and unfortunately some members do not possess them, the biographies of both the Stebbins and Webster ancestors, are given back to their arrival in America. Only one line of descent is followed, all other members of these families will be found in their respective genealogies.

See—The Stebbins Family Genealogy, by Greenlee published in 1904.
The Gov. John Webster Family, by Melville Webster published in 1915, pages 790 to 792.

All descendants of the Stebbins and Webster lines given in this record are eligible to the various Historical Societies through military services herein recorded. Military records since 1904 are noted. I have endeavored to obtain interesting autobiographies of all the new members and some additional on the older ones, also their photos, and that of their birthplaces, homes, business locations and graves. Some information on varous intermarried lines is included in the Appendix.

I hope this record will be interesting and meet the approval of all.

—JOHN ALFRED STEBBINS

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

In compiling and publishing this little addition to the history of the Stebbins family, it has been solely the aim of the author to preserve these records for future genealogical use. First the intent was to follow only the descendants of Abyram Stebbins (944) and Margaret Webster, but many of these failed to reply to my request for data pertaining to their families, and I have added other branches of the Stebbins family. All new data in this volume has been gathered directly from each family and is as accurate as possible. I beg your indulgence if any errors or omissions have occurred.

Especial acknowledgement is accorded to those descendants of Benton P. Stebbins, Willard W. Stebbins and Homer P. Stebbins whose collection of photos have added so much to this record. My thanks is extended to all those who answered my request for data and loaned me their family photos.

For the preservation of the family name and history

Sincerely,

JOHN A. STEBBINS, NO. 6501

CHAPTER 1.

ORIGIN OF THE STEBBINS NAME AND FAMILY.

Ellis Intro. to Domesday Book. The Stebbins Genealogy by Greenlee.

The name Stebbins is a shortening of the word Stebbing deriving from the word Stub, or Saxon word Stybo, Stub meaning a stump, Ing, a field or meadow. The combined word meaning a stumpy meadow, evidently cleared off land with the stumps still standing.

It was first applied to the parish of Stubing or Stibing, but recorded in the Domesday Book as Stebbing. The earliest mention that can be found is in William the Conqueror's Domesday Book compiled A.D. 1080—1086 and was applied the the Villa, of Stibing. Stibing being the name as recorded in King Alfreds Domesday Book compiled in A. D. 900. This book was lost or destroyed and William the Conqueror's record was made to replace it.

Stebbing parish in the year A.D. 1086 was held by Henry de Ferrers, Ralph Peverell, and Count Eustace. The Ferrers and Peverell families held the parish by favor of the King for services in William the Congueror's conqust of England.

See Peverell Family—Americans of Royal Descent, Vol. 1, page 68.

Ferrers was a Nobleman from Normandy, his son Robert was made Earl of Derby by King Stephen in A.D. 1138. The third Earl of Derby—William de Ferrers married Margaret, a daughter of William Peverell and their great grandson, William Ferrers, sixth Earl of Derby had a son John who was given the name John de Stebbing, after the Stebbings estates and Stebbings coat of Arms granted. From that time on, he and his descendants were known by the name of Stebbins.

William de Ferrers, sixth Earl of Derby was one of the four nobles who carried the canopy over the head of King Richard I at his second coronation after his return from captivity and also took part in the coronation of King John in 1188 and of King Henry 3rd in 1216.

Stebbing town or parish is in the hundred of Hinkford about 40 miles northwest of London and five miles northwest of Braintree. It is 26 miles in circumference, and contains 4383 acres. (Authority—Wrights Hist. of Essex, Eng.) Porters Hall, an ancient building with its moat, is still standing, came into the possession of John de Stebbing in 1199.

The church dedicated to St. Mary the Virgin, was built A. D. 1327 (see engraving in Greenlee's Stebbins Genealogy) was partially restored in 1884, was built over the foundation of a more ancient church of which all history is lost.

The tower has five bells dating 1772-1779. On the windows are painted the Arms of Edmund Crouchback, Earl of Lancaster; Bohun Vernon, Earl of Surrey; Lovain, Duke of Exter, and other notables.

The old church record contains many births, deaths, and marriages of the Stebbins family. This record was removed to London 188 years ago. Rev. A. T. Wright was Rector of the church in 1900, it was still in use at that date. It was probably built in the time of Edward 3rd. (1327-1377.)

Another older church exists in Kettleburgh, Suffolk County, which belonged to the Stebbins estates, was built in William the Conqueror's time, 1080, its list of Rectors is complete back to 1304 or 648 years to date. Rev. R. O. Davies was Rector in 1900. It contains the records of many Stebbins people.

Although the majority of the Stebbins have been farmers, we find a large number of Preachers, Authors, Artists, Musicians, Teachers and Manufacturers. From the Stebbins family in England there are several noted Authors, their works mostly in Theology and History.

Three Presidents of the United States trace their ancestry through maternal lines to the Stebbins family, John Adams and John Q. Adams, second and sixth Presidents had for their great grandmother, Catherine Stebbins in England.

Grover Cleveland, twenty-second President, his great grandmother was Ruth Stebbins, daughter of Thomas Stebbins, 2nd. generation in America.

ORIGIN OF THE WEBSTER NAME AND FAMILY

From The Gov. John Webster Family History, by Melville Webster.

The name Webster is a trade name, the name for a feminine weaver of cloth. (See Andersons Genealogy of Surnames).

The Webster family came from Scotland at a very early date and settled in Yorkshire County, England. English records show Webster of Lockington in 1330 during the reign of Edward 3rd. This date may not mean his birth but when he was seated on his estate and made an Esquire. This Webster or his son still held the Manor of Lockington, in Yorkshire, during Richard 2nd. 1389-1399. The recognized founder of the family was John Webster of Bolsover near Chesterfield in Derbyshire, who took oath of observance to the King in the 12th year of Henry 6th. in 1434.

From him descended John Webster who received from Henry 8th. large grants of land in Cambridgeshire, Essex and Huntingdonshire. This in 1509-1547. From him descended John Webster born in 1590 in the 3rd. generation. This John Webster came to Watertown near Boston, between 1630 and 1633.

WEBSTER COAT OF ARMS. Argent, a fesse gules between three cross crosslets, fitsschu azure.

CREST. The sun rising out of the sea. The sun is the Heraldic emblem of splendor and of absolute authority.

MOTTO. Emergo (I come up).

The above was confirmed to the Webster family at Penns, County of Warwick, by St. George in the visitation of Yorkshire in 1612. This one belongs to Gov. John Websters line as he came from the Warwickshire branch. This was also used by the ancestors at Lockington. Among the other branches of the family we find the lion, swan, dragon and weavers shuttle used as emblems on the arms, with the legend—Fides et Justitia (Faith and Justice).

THE WEBSTER FAMILY IN AMERICA.

Descendants of Gov. John Webster of Hartford, Conn. down to the intermarriage with the Stebbins family in the seventh generation. One line only is given in this record, other children of these families are found in the Gov. JOHN WEBSTER Genealogy.

THE GOV. JOHN WEBSTER FAMILY IN AMERICA.

First Generation.

John Webster of Warwickshire, England was born in the year of 1590, died April 5, 1661 at Hartford, Conn. grave at Hadley, Mass. Was married in England to Agness Shotwell, who died in 1667 at Hadley, birth date not known. All sons were born in England and his two daughters in America. He and wife and sons came to Mass. Bay Colony (not certain) but between 1630 and 1633. First came to Watertown near Boston, then to Newtown (now Cambridge, Mass).

He was a member of the Rev. Hooker party, who made the historic march through the forest May 31, 1636 from Newtown to the new settlement on the south side of Little River, a stream flowing into the Connecticut River from the west. They founded the town of Hartford, Conn. at this place. John Webster, a member of this party of Colonists, was one of the original proprietors and settlers of Hartford and one of the founders of the Colony of Connecticut.

See, Rev. Hookers march—page 4, Gov. John Websters Genealogy.

John Webster was a prominent man and was chosen annually for twenty years into the Magistry of Conn. Was elected Governor in 1656, the 5th. Governor of Connecticut.

Their son Lieut. Robert Webster, was born in England in 1627. For the other children of Gov. John, see the Webster Gen.

Second Generation. Gov. John Webster 1

LIEUT. ROBERT WEBSTER 2 Agness Shotwell

Lieut. Robert Webster, son of Gov. John Webster and Agness Shotwell, was born 1627 in England, and came to the Colony with his father. Died May 31, 1676, grave at Hartford, Conn. Married 1652 to Susannah Treat, who was the daughter of Richard Treat and Alice Gaylord who were married in Pitminister, England April 27, 1615. Alice was the daughter of Hugh Gaylord. Susannah was the sister of Hon. Robert Treat, 8th. Gov. of Conn. Susannah Treat was born 1629, died 1705. Lieut. Robt. Webster was a man of ability and was one of the original proprietors of the new settlement of Middletown. Was elected Recorder by the Assembly. The full extent of his services in King Philips war is not known but records show he was paid 2 pounds and 13 shillings for said services. His name appears in the list of Freeman in ye south side of Hartford in 1669. He was chosen Magistrate representing Middletown in the general court from 1653-1655 also 1656-1657. He retired to Hartford. His son Jonathan was born Jan. 9, 1656 at Middletown, Conn. (See Treat and Gaylord in Appendix.)

Chapter 2.

BIOGRAPHY OF BENTON PIXLEY STEBBINS

Born on a farm near Lansing, Thompkins County, New York, Aug. 23, 1825. His parents having moved from either Chelsea or Williamstown, Vermont about 1797 or 1800 to Fabius, N. Y. and then to a farm near Lansing about 1810, having originally came from Wilbraham, Mass. to Vermont about 1794, bringing with them Margaret Webster, grandmother of Benton P. Stebbins.

In the winter of 1832-33 his father and mother and two children (one beside himself) went to Vermont in a two horse sleigh, visiting at Williamstown and other places, crossing Lake Champlain on the ice from Burlington to Port Kent, N. Y. to visit his grandmother, Cloe Fletcher, grandfather Stebbins sister, uncles and aunts. and then back again to Vermont where they traded the sleigh for a wagon and went south to Wilbraham, Mass., and Hartford, Conn., visiting the Stebbins families there, in the summer of 1833, then on to Stinnington, Conn., then back home. He was only 7 years old yet remembered a great many things that happened during their journey.

In 1833 his uncle, Lemuel Stebbins moved from Lansing to carve a home in the forest on Hector Hill, now called Barton Hills, 4 miles west of Barton Center and 8 miles north of Waverly, in Tioga County, N. Y. Waverly, now a large city, was then only a mill and a few houses. Isaac Stebbins and family followed for the same purpose, and here Benton Stebbins lived until 21 years of age.

The old home still stands but the home and barn of Lemuel Stebbins has fallen down. Across the road from Benton Stebbins home stands a very large barn, about 100 feet long. During this time about 1841, was the beginning of the Temperance movement and it was in his father's barn there was held a debate between the liquor men and the first American Temperance Society. The speaker for the liquor side emphasized his point by striking the pulpit with his fist saying, what shall we do with the corn. This demonstration woke up a drunken man sleeping on the front seat, who suddenly surprised the congregation by yelling, feed it to the hogs, you old fool you! This caused a big uproar of laughter, much to the discomfiture of the liquor men.

In the autumn of 1846 the family moved to Nachez, Mississippi to work in the southern forests. Another uncle, Champion Stebbins moving from Barton Hills to Franklinville, Cattaraugus County, N. Y. on a farm near Linden Post Office, built a house near a sulphur spring in the forest. The house no longer remains, only the cellar hole, with a large tree standing near.

Near the Barton Hill homestead is a cemetery, where there are more than a dozen Stebbins graves. Abyram's and Margaret's here.

BIOGRAPHY OF BENTON PIXLEY STEBBINS

In the spring of 1847 the family left Miss. and went back to a farm near Allegheny City. The Heinze Pickle Plant is now located on this land. Here Benton Stebbins bought a team and wagon and traveled, selling medicines for a druggist. One important medicine was Petroleum from an oil spring at Tarentum 18 or 20 miles north of Pittsburgh on the Allegheny River. He bottled it in 4 ounce bottles and sold it as beneficial for various diseases. This was ten years before oil was discovered at Titusville, later to become the world's greatest commodity.

He began teaching school in Butler County, Pa., where he met Miss Landis and married her in 1849, then moved to Prospect Hill in Jefferson County, later changed to Reynoldsville, where his father died in 1850. He continued teaching school and selling medicine. In 1854 he started a drug store in Luthersburg, east of Reynoldsville, in Clearfield County, continued teaching till 1858. Early 1859 he went to Concordia Parish, Louisiana where an uncle had moved, working at the carpenter trade until 1860, then came back to Luthersburg to find it in the midst of a big boom.

E. L. Drake found oil Aug. 28, 1859, south of Titusville, he then moved to Pleasantville, nearby and started making oil barrels. Oil wells being drilled too fast, and with slow transportation, much of it was put in surface ponds. Mr. Rockefeller came from Cleveland, O., and began making oil leases to control the field, and barrel making slumped.

B. P. Stebbins moved to Corry, Pa. in 1862 where he began publishing the first paper in the city of Corry, the first number appearing Oct. 22, 1863 under the title, 'Corry City News,' Stebbins and Larkin Proprietors. Oil was beginning to make prosperity and the town began to grow. Mrs. Stebbins also started a business of her own, a Photograph Art Gallery, a new art just coming into perfection. In 1866, he was called to look after some land an Uncle, Enos Fletcher had left and who had moved to Natchez in 1846 and died there, near Canton, Miss. He stayed doing carpenter work, and while working on a church he seriously injured his right hand and had to learn to write with his left but with this handicap he wrote a very plain legible hand.

His oldest son Alfred was with him on this trip to Canton, Miss. They returned to Corry in 1867.

At this time family troubles caused a separation from his wife and he and his sons Alfred and Fletcher built a portable gallery and traveled in Potter County in Pa. and Tioga County, in N. Y. He visited the home of Champion Stebbins, his uncle at Raymond, Potter County, Pa. and married Amelia Stebbins in 1872.

They went to Canisteo, N. Y. in 1873, rented a room above a store, built a photograph gallery, and his wife took landscape painting lessons. They stayed only one year for Amelia's brother Willard interested them in going south. In Delaware and Maryland large estates were being broken up. Benton and Willard made a trip there in 1874 and reported it a very good peach and vegetable country with amuch milder climate. Benton, Willard, and the Voorhees family with others, fitted out a covered wagon and the five families started out from Voorhees Hill at Wellsville, New York. Willard had married Emily Voorhees. Benton and wife arrived in Talbot County, Maryland Dec. 30, 1874. He bought a brick building and fitted up a gallery on the second floor. The building was still there in 1950. Mrs. Stebbins took many prizes with her landscapes. The other families bought farms near Bethlehem, Md., near Easton and built homes. Eugene Lawrence was born there. Amelia's father and mother, Champion and Philinda died here, their graves back of the Methodist Church in Bethlehem.

The climate developed a lot of Malaria and they learned of the better place in Shenandoah Valley, Virginia. Here Mr. Stebbins and Charles Voorhees moved to Luray on April 16, 1878, At Luray Stebbins built a portable gallery traveling from town to town.

The mountains and hills attracted their attention and a trip was made to a saltpeter cave, and then they explored an old Indian cave in which they sought an entrance to a larger cave, but could find none. From this experience Benton Stebbins was fired with the ambition to search for a larger cave, sink holes indicared underground openings.

The people of the valley were not interested in the sink holes and filled them up with rock to keep their cattle out, hunters lost rabbits that would run in them, thus many of them were filled up. Mr. Stebbins organized a group of four. Mr. William Campbell, Andrew Campbell, Mr. Hilliard, and himself to search for a cavern. Many trips were made during a three months period, which brought nothing but the name, Cave Rats from the public. Aug. 12, 1878 they made a last try in a rock filled sink hole that required almost a day to clear out sufficient to crawl in. When an opening was made, Mr. Andrew Campbell, the smaller of them was let down on a rope. After waiting some time a boy was sent down to see what had become of him. When they came out it was decided to come back later and explore as a crowd of boys had gathered and it was now evening. They did, and after going a short distance, came to a lake and decided the indication was sufficient to purchase the land, but not sure that it was large enough to be of value.

This land, with others by the same owner was for sale for debts and they purchased the 28½ acres for $17 per acre, which was considered twice its true value. After the sale was confirmed by the Court, they opened it up and completed the exploration, then realized they had found a beautiful cavern. They then made walks and bridges, to open it up to visitors. Newspapers of America announced the discovery of the world's most beautiful caven, even Europe was heard from, and the little town awoke to find itself famous.

Many difficulties had to be overcome, there was no railroad and visitors had to come 18 miles of rough muddy mountain roads by stage coach. There was no electricity and lighting was done with candles, 3000 being used for each excursion. Smithsonian Scientists came and made a long report on its wonders. Three years passed before the proposed railroad was built.

A relative of the former owner came and brought suit in Court for a resale of the cave lands for a higher price. After one year Mr. Stebbins gained the suit and had the sale confirmed again, but this did not end it, and he took it to the State Court at Richmond and the lower decision was reversed and ordered to be advertised for sale. Next day it was found that the property was sold for $39,500 to some Philadelphia men without waiting to advertise it. This brought Mr. Stebbins and wife to the depths of despair.

The discouraged family wanted to leave, but moved only 8 miles to Stanley, where his son Charles Arthur was born. During his numerous trips to the mountains he found many samples of copper ore and he interested other men and formed the Richard Copper Mining Co. They did considerable work but outside influence brought about the ruin of the project. Mr. Stebbins being confined from the effects of a fall at this time.

He and his daughter Louella contacted the Supreme Court at Washington, regarding the cave suit and Chief Justice Black gave a favorable report, saying the Richmond Court had made an error in their decision.

Benton and his Uncle Willard operated an ochre mine at Stanley and did well for some time. Willard then moved to Kansas. Mr. Stebbins also taught school in Stanley, organizing a Temperance Society and built a church in 1887 which still is in use. Their son Lawrence died here in Stanley.

In 1887 they moved to Junction City, Kan. where his brother C. B. Stebbins lived. Here he taught school and traveled with a portable gallery. Amelia, his wife died in Junction City, Kan. in 1898.

In 1900 he made a trip to N. Y. State where he interested his cousins in a project to operate the copper mine again. He then organized the Blue Ridge Mining Co. While engaged in this project he made many trips to the old mine but in 1906 he caught a heavy cold and was sick for 12 weeks. It was hard for him to give up his ambition to do things, but as death neared he surrendered. His daughter Louella Stebbins Baker attended him during his illness. His grave is in Stanleyton cemetery where his son erected a monument to his memory, and as the discoverer of the Luray Cavern.

Mr. Stebbins was a nexcellent student, a great reader and possessed an unusual store of knowledge, with a real gift of expression. Amelia his wife was a talented painter of both portraits and landscapes.

His first wife, Sarah Ann Landis Stebbins, lived the remainder of her life in Corry, Pa. and followed the profession of Photographer, until in later years when her eyes caused her to change. She then established a greenhouse business and did well with it until her death in 1905. Many examples of her photographic work, now 90 years old, are in perfect condition. She was a brilliant and talented woman.

CHARLES BREESE STEBBINS 9, son of Isaac Keeney Stebbins and Roxanna Fletcher was born Sept. 1, 1840 at Barton, N. Y. Married March 5, 1860 at New Orleans, Louisiana to Fanny R. Poor, born April 5, 1838 at Hyde Park, Lamoile County, Vermont who was the daughter of George Poor and Rebecca Fletcher. Profession, Surveyor. Politics, Republican. Religion, Methodist. Residence Junction City, Kansas. Charles Breese Stebbins died Nov. 25, 1927 at Junction City, Kansas. His wife Fanny Poor died Sept. 30, 1918 Graves at Junction City. His father moved to Concordia Parish, Louisiana in the fall of 1846 and living there one year, moved to Allegheny City, Pa. They lived there until 1849 and then moved to Reynoldsville, Jefferson County, Pa. As a young man he taught school in the winters, and went to school in the summers, until the later part of 1859 when he went to Concordia Parish, La. where he taught school until 1863.

April 11, 1863 he was conscripted into the Confederate Army, but got a furlough during which he and his family left as refugees for the Union lines. He took his wife and two children in a skiff and went on the river, traveling by night, and hiding in the brush during the day. They arrived at the mouth of the Red River, and found three of Farragut's vessels there. Farragut would not take them on board as the law did not permit a woman on a battleship, and then he was expecting a fight at any time. He gave them provisions and the name of a Union sympathizer living above Port Hudson, and set them adrift at night. They traveled up the Mississippi River to this man's home and by him were hid for several days, and then were put in the care of a party that were smuggling goods into the Union lines. They went around back of Port Hudson, and entered the Union lines at Baton Rouge. From there the Government sent them to New York via New Orleans .Arriving in New York, they made their way to Reynoldsville, Pa. Arrived there June 11, 1863, two months after they started. He then went to Titusville in the oil region where his moher had moved.

In the fall of 1869 he moved to Carlton, Madison County, Mississippi, and lived there until the later part of 1873, when he moved to Junction City, Kansas.

Here he served three terms as County Surveyor and two terms as County Treasurer. In 1896 he was a candidate for State Representative on the Republican ticket, but was defeated by a small majority. He held the office of Councilman for several years and was City Engineer for a long time. He also served a number of years on the school board.

Alfred B. Stebbins received praise from the Smithsonian Institute for his valuable collection of photographic literature which he saved during his entire life in the photographic profession. Many rare publications were included in this almost one ton of literature, which he gave to the Institution.

At his death the Professional Photographers Society paid their respects to him. He was the organizer of the southern tier of the Professional Photographers Society of New York State.

His second wife, Isabel had considerable talent in writing poems, two of which relate to her husband are included on the next two pages.

WE FIND HIM STRONG TO MEET EACH TRIAL
HE'S CARRIED OUT LIFE'S ADAGE TRUE
'TIS BEST TO LIKE, WHAT ONE HAS TO DO
AND THERE ARE MANY WHO HAVE HEARD HIM TELL
WHAT'S WORTH DOING, IS WORTH DOING WELL.

HE CAME A YOUNG MAN, TO THIS BEAUTIFUL VALE
WHERE THE YEARS WERE SPENT AS A WONDEROUS TALE
IN LOYAL DEVOTION TO FAMILY AND FRIENDS
HE WAS EQUALLY DEVOTED TO THE PHOTOGRAPHIC LENS
NOR HAS HE BEEN LIMITED HIS ABILITY TO SHOW
AS MANY WHO CAME TO HIM ALL GLADLY KNOW
HE WROUGHT WITH HIS HANDS AND BRAINS IT IS TRUE
AND RENDERED FAIR SERVICE AS ALL TRUE MEN DO
BUT LAST AND BEST OF ALL, HE HAS BEEN FOUND
TRYING TO HELP OTHERS TO LIFE'S HIGHER GROUND
TO ONE WHO HAS EARNED IT, MAY IT REACH TO THE HEAVENS
HIS NAME IS WELL KNOWN, IT IS A. B. STEBBINS.

SCHOOL - DAY MEMORIES

DO YOU REMEMBER BACK, SOME SIXTY YEARS AGO
HOW SHORT A TIME IT SEEMS
WHEN YOU AND I WERE KIDS TOGETHER
OUR DAYS WERE FILLED WITH DREAMS

REMEMBER THE SCHOOL HOUSE ON TERRACE HIGH
WHERE FLOODING RIVER LEFT US DRY
AND TEACHERS NOW, BY MEMORIES BLEST
HAVE GONE TO THEIR ETERNAL REST

HOW WE MARCHED AND SANG 'ROUND THE OLD SCHOOL ROOM
OF JOHN BROWN'S BODY IN THE TOMB
AND HANGED JEFF DAVIS ON THE SOUR APPLE TREE
AH — THOSE WERE SCHOOL DAYS FOR YOU AND ME

'TIS NOW WITH LONGING I REMEMBER
THE CHANGING COLORS OF SEPTEMBER
AND THE BURSTING FLOWERS OF EARLY SPRING
ALONG EACH WOODEN GLEN AND STREAM

THE LITTLE OLD TOWN BY THE RIVER-SIDE, IT SEEMS UNCHANGED IN ITS GLAMOUR, WILL
WITH SPRUCE - WOODED CREEK AND OLD GRIST MILL
BE EVER IN MY DREAMS

'TIS NOW LIFE'S AUTUMN AND MY HAIR IS GREY
AND I'VE WANDERED EARTH'S PATHS, SO FAR AWAY
BUT SOMETHING DRAWS TIGHT AROUND MY HEART
AND OF OLD KITTANNING I'M STILL A PART

By J. A. S. (6501)

THE LITTLE PEOPLE

A DREARY WORLD WOULD BE THIS EARTH
WERE THERE NO LITTLE PEOPLE IN IT;
THE SONG OF LIFE WOULD LOSE ITS MIRTH,
WERE THERE NO CHILDREN TO BEGIN IT.

NO LITTLE FORMS LIKE BUDS TO GROW,
AND MAKE THE ADMIRING HEART SURRENDER;
NO LITTLE HANDS ON BREAST AND BROW,
TO KEEP THE THRILLING LOVE-CHORDS TENDER.

THE STERNER SOULS WOULD GROW MORE STERN,
UNFEELING NATURE MORE UNHUMAN,
AND MAN TO STOIC COLDNESS TURN,
AND WOMAN WOULD BE LESS THAN WOMAN.

LIFE'S SONG, INDEED, WOULD LOSE ITS CHARM,
WERE THERE NO BABIES TO BEGIN IT;
A DOLEFUL PLACE THIS WORLD WOULD BE,
WERE THERE NO LITTLE PEOPLE IN IT.

John Percy Gardner Jr. married second to Nadine Berniece Ramsey who was born Aug. 28, 1911 at Carlyle, Ill., the daughter of Claude Price Ramsey and Nell Brown Cozad. Nadine B. Ramsey attended school at El Dorado, Kan. and later at Wichita. Profession, Aviatrix. Religion, Protestant. Politics, Republican. Her hobby, Music. Military service, Women's Air Force Service Pilot. War work in W. W. 2 ferrying aircraft for the Air Force. Employed in 1951 as Link Trainer Operator at Trans Ocean Airlines based at Bakersfield, Calif. Nadine Ramsey learned to fly as a member of Civil Air Patrol and continued her flight training, becoming the first woman in Kansas to receive a Dept. ofCommerce license to pilot commercial aircraft. During the war she flew P-38's as a W.A.S.P. When the group was deactivated, she was retained and lately has been the only woman in the United States to give traditional training in the fighter group. She owned her own P-38 and an Aircraft Parts Company, and was an entry in the Bendix Cross Country Air Race in 1946. Her brother, Lt. Col. Edwin Ramsey was one of the survivors of the Bataan and was not heard from until the American Forces discovered him as the leader of a strong band of Guerrillas on the Island of Luzon.

John Percy Gardner served during World War 2 as Flight Officer in the Pacific Area, and as a pilot trainer before going overseas. For his services he received the following Citation and award of Air Medal.

CITATION

Flight Officer John P. Gardner, 5-138-656, Air Corps, for meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flight on 28 August 1945. As an Army Air Force Co-pilot, Flight Officer Gardner participated in the first flight of the First Group of C-54 Aircraft carrying men and supplies into Atsugi Air Field, Tokyo, Japan. The flight was accomplished under extremely trying and hazardous conditions, in that no information was available regarding runway and field conditions, weather data, navigational aids, and the possibility of enemy action. Flight Officer Gardner's achievements and steadfast devotion to duty reflect much credit upon himself and the military service.

4408 Herbert Paul Stebbins, born June 8, 1879
4409 Silas Ray Stebbins, born July 19, 1881

Homer P. Stebbins throughout his life demonstrated those qualities which make men great. Cast upon a world of hard realities as a small boy, worked for his board, attending school three months of the year. At the age of 15 he made his way alone from Toledo, Ohio to Geneva, N.Y., where he spent three years learning the printing trade. From this time till after 21, he worked at various times at printing and in the rough lead mining section of Wisconsin. In 1853 he began studies at Oberlin College, not detered by his small amount of schooling, graduated in six years. During this time he set type three hours, recited three, and studied six hours per day and after three years was given a class to teach.

A short time later he went on a trip to Europe which took him from Scotland and England through Germany, France, Switzerland and Italy. This he made alone and on foot, except for 150 miles by train, the trip consuming about 1½ years, as he states by rigid economy and the skin of his teeth. Home again, he managed and edited the Medina (Ohio) Gazette, later owned, printed and edited The Hiawatha (Kansas) Union Sentinel, alone and without help of any kind. During his life, has been connected with various other papers, conducted a Real Estate business and was a successful Merchant. See his photo in European traveling costume, page 109

2586—3. George W., born Sept. 25, 1852, died January 10, 1853.

Dolly Titus was born on the ocean when her parents were coming from Scotland to America. Joel Stebbins, father of Joseph W., was twelve years old, at the time he shot his first Indian through a porthole of the house, during an attack and his mother (Sarah Beebe) killed another by hitting him over the head with a homemade oak chair. The other Indian fled. Our country needs more oak chairs and women like her.

George Coles Stebbins, son of William Vanness Stebbins and Teressa Warring, was born Feb. 26, 1846 at East Carlton, Orleans County, N.Y. Married in 1868 at East Carlton to Elma Miller who was born Oct. 25 at Rensselaerville, Albany County, N.Y. Profession, Evangelistic singer and composer of church music. Religion, Protestant. Resided in Brooklyn for fifty years. Resided in Catskill, N.Y. with his sister Charlotte Ella Stebbins Miller from 1934 to the time of his death Oct. 6, 1945.

Children. George Warring Stebbins was born June 16, 1869. Married June 1, 1898 to Caroline T. Worth. George Warring Stebbins was a successful music teacher and composer of church music. He was organist at Plymouth Congregational Church of Brooklyn, N.Y. He died 1930. Children, a daughter, Elizabeth Stebbins.

George Coles Stebbins, composer of over 1500 hymns and associate of the late evangelists Dwight L. Moody and Ira D. Sankey, died Oct. 6, 1945 at the age of 99 years and 8 months at his home on High St., Catskill, N.Y. Mr. Stebbins was the lone survivor of the little band of revivalists, which, led by Mr. Moody and Mr. Sankey, stirred up a tremendous religious revival in this country and England at the end of the last century. He was one of the earliest members of the original group, and for twenty-five years wrote much of the music for the Gospel meetings. Born on a farm in Carlton, Orleans County, N.Y., Mr. Stebbins received his first instruction in music at a rural singing school. When he was twenty-one he went to Buffalo to study voice, and a year later began his professional career as a tenor in the quartet of a Rochester, N.Y. church.

In 1869 he moved to Chicago, where he became director of music in the First Baptist Church. In 1874 he became the director of music in the Clarendon St. Baptist Church in Boston and a year later the same position with the Tremont Temple Baptist Church. It was at this church one of his best known hymns, "Evening Prayer," was written. Asked by Mr. Moody in 1876 to join him in evangelistic work, Mr. Stebbins began an association which lasted until Mr. Moody's death in 1899. During this period he traveled with the group throughout the U.S. and three times in England and Scotland. During their stay in London, Princess Mary, later Queen of England, asked him personally to sing his hymn, "Some Time We'll Understand." He was with the group in their evangelistic tours of India, Egypt and the Holyland. After the death of Mr. Sankey in 1908, he retired from active evangelical work and resided in Brooklyn. He continued to write music for hymns and was still composing them when he moved to Catskill to live with his sister in 1934.

In 1924 he was editor of Greatest Hymns, and in 1925 of the New Church Hymnal. For many years he was one of the editors of the Moody and Sankey Gospel Hymn books. Some of his best known hymns are "Jesus Is Calling," "Take Time To Be Holy," "Jesus I Come To Thee," "Saviour Breathe An Evening Blessing," "There Is A Green Hill Far Away," "I Know That My Redeemer Lives," "In The Secret Of His Presence, "True Hearted, Whole Hearted," "Have Thine Own Way Lord," "Saved By Grace," and "Yonder Land."

Bob Jones College of Cleveland, Tenn., conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Sacred Music. After services in Catskill, his body was sent to Brooklyn and after services there, buried in Maple Lawn Cemetery, Kew Gardens.

Surviving are a granddaughter, Mrs. Michael E. Puyans of Garden City, L. I., formerly Elizabeth Stebbins, and two great grandsons, Andre M. and Roger W. Puyans and a niece, Miss Edna Stebbins of Ithaca, N. Y. The following poem was written for George C. Stebbins' 95th birthday, Feb. 26, 1941 by Isabel V. Stebbins, wife of (5505).

ANOTHER BIRTHDAY, CAN IT BE
ANOTHER BIRTHDAY GIVEN TO ME
CAN I FIND RAPTURE IN THE THOUGHT
THAT LIFE IS SPARED, AND GOD HAS WROUGHT
ALONG THE YEARS HIS PLANS TO PROVE,
IN WISDOM AND ETERNAL LOVE,
THAT ALL THINGS WORK TOGETHER FOR GOOD
TO THOSE THAT LOVE HIM, AS THEY SHOULD
ANOTHER BIRTHDAY, WE WOULD GREET
THE ONE WHOSE MUSIC MADE LIFE SWEET
WHEN SET TO WORDS IN COMFORT GIVEN
TO GUIDE OUR THOUGHTS FROM EARTH TO HEAVEN
AND WE SHOULD TRULY THANKFUL BE
THAT HE HAS EVER LIVED TO SEE,
HOW ALL GOD'S PROMISES ARE SURE, TO THOSE WHO FAITHFUL TO THE END ENDURE.

STEBBINS NOTES

Gathered from Newspaper clippings, and some families not included in this volume. These items recorded that they may aid future genealogists.

Most of them I have identified in their proper line as given in the Greenlee Record. See reference as given with each name.

Stebbins notes.

All dates in this work prior to 1752 are given as found in other accepted works, assuming any variation of one year to have been definitely settled to their satisfaction.

Several European nations had a different time for starting the Legal or Civic year, the Legal year began on March 25 while the Historic year began Jan. 1. This gave rise to the practice of double dating events that happened between Dec. 31 and March 25, thus Feb. 16, 1725-6, such a date would be 1725 of the Legal year but 1726 of the Historic. In 1752 British Parliament enacted a law making both years end Dec. 31 and begin with Jan. 1, but this was years after others of the European nations had fixed their year both Civic and Historic to be as one. At this time Great Britain adopted the Gregorian Calendar, which added eleven days to that of the previous Julian Calendar. The Julian Calendar has been termed the Old Style time and the Gregorian the New Style.

2 Lieut. Thomas Stebbins

Indian Deeds-Old Hampshire County, Mass. Records March 1, 1680-81. Here we note the double dating, but accept 1681 as the correct date, as it is beyond Jan. 1 though still in the Civil year.

Excerpts - from this lengthy deed which was also a treaty reserving hunting and fishing rights to the Indian owner but not infringing on the English right thereto.

TO ALL PEOPLE TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME

I TAWTAPS alias NOTATTUCK, the right Indian owner of all the land east of the Connecticut River from Asnuntuck or Freshwater River down to Umsquattanuck at the foot of the falls, being willing to accommodate the English, viz, Lieut. Thomas Stebbins, Jonathan Burt, Benjamin Parsons, John Pease, William Downton and Thomas Gold, who are settling a plantation above Freshwater River — and wherefore know ye that the said Tawtaps alias Notattuck does agree and fully consent to a sale and surrender of the greatest part of my land to the sd. English in consideration of the sum of five and twenty pounds to me in hand, I acknowledge myself fully satisfied and contented.

This lengthy document notes the woods, brooks, waters, stones, minerals, meadows and marshes, of a tract of land containing about 32 square miles. There is no history of Notattuck ever repudiating this sale. I wonder how much of this land one could purchase for twenty five pounds today.

The Bardwell Stebbins house, located on lot No. 39 of the original lots of Deerfield 1670. John Baker, original owner of the lot. Wm. Pixley owned it 1675 to 1684, Solomon Stoddard owned it in 1710 and sold it in 1713 to Samuel Bardwell and three partners. In 1714 Bardwell bought out his partners and built this house about 1771 to replace one burned down at this time in which he kept a Tavern. It passed to his son and then to his grandson, Eldad Jr. whose heirs sold it to Joseph Stebbins in 1799. From Joseph it went to his son Dennis whose assignees sold it to Henry Stebbins, and from him it came to Lucy, Louisa and Mary Stebbins who kept it till later it was purchased from the Stebbins, by Martha King Humphery who resides in it today, 1953. See History of Deerfield by G. Sheldon, Vol. 1, page 625 and Greenl. Stebb. Gen. Vol. 1, page 459. Photo by courtesy of Martha K. Humphrey (1953).

Do you remember any of these that were the interesting things of life in the good old horse and buggy days? The stereoscope with its views, the Regina music box and the little Estey parlor organ, that were the entertainment at home parties. Kerosene lamps and gas lights were in use for footlights on the opera stage and the stereopticon used a lime light for projection. Electricity coming into use for house lighting. Many circus were still traveling overland, their wagons drawn through the mud roads by big Clydesdale horses. Then came the Edison Phonograph and the vendor that let you hear it for 10 cents through ear tubes. Hand cameras and kodaks were becoming popular. Railroad cars were still using carbide lights. The first moving pictures and the Nickelodian shows were starting to compete with Vaudeville. The invention of the X-ray, the introduction of ozonized or electrified air that would cure all ills. The effort to build air ships with big sausage shaped balloons. When the neighbor that had one of those new fangled telephones, kept his chin high in the air. The safety bicycle and the many bicycle clubs. When bicycles were a traffic problem on all streets. The steamboat excursions on rivers and lakes. The coming of the first horseless carriage, when horse buggies were having their tires of solid rubber, and at school we were still hanging Jeff Davis on the sour apple tree, in a song of that day. When a pair of shoes cost $1.00 and 25 cents worth of sirloin steak would feed a family of six. Every family had a coffee mill and used Arbuckles coffee. The old Livery Stable was the town's prominent business. The sinking of the Maine brought the war with Spain. If you remember these, you are an old-timer.

James M. Phillips (see 3717 Vol. 2 p. 528 Greenlee Stebb. Gen.), son of Margaret Stebbins and John Phillips, married Zylpha Howard, born July 4, 1832, died Feb. 25, 1907 at Andover, N.Y. Not certain if these dates apply to wife or James Phillips. Original photos made by B. P. Stebbins (3736).

Miss Fannie A. Stebbins (see 4783 Vol. 2 p. 710 Greenlee Stebbins Gen.). Notes on her death taken from the Springfield Union of July 2, 1949. Miss Fannie A. Stebbins retired Supervisor of Science in both elementary and high school grades. She was a pioneer in this line when few books on the subject were available. She won national recognition for the development of her teaching methods and material. Born Sept. 3, 1858 at Wilbraham where she attended school and later Westfield State Teachers College, graduating in 1880. Her book on Insect Galls is recognized as a source of authority on this subject. She has done much research in Botany, geology, bird life, animal life, and astronomy. Her data on water fowl compiled for the National Biological Survey in Washington, D.C., 1929 was used in a treaty between the U.S. and Canada regarding game laws. She is remembered for her great human qualities as well as her limitless knowledge of natural sciences. Was a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Died July 1, 1949 at Springfield, Mass.

Marie Louise Stebbins.

Notes, from the Springfield Union of Jan. 24, 1928: Miss Marie Louise Stebbins (see 4804 Vol. 2 p. 712 Greenlee Stebb. Gen.), daughter of John Bliss Stebbins and Marie Stebbins, died Jan. 23, 1928, age 71, at her home on Crescent Hill in which she was born Aug. 10, 1857. She was a noted musician and prominent in Springfield's highest social circles. She was affectionately regarded for her sweet character, charm of personality and great regard for the happiness of others. She was very active in many welfare associations and among the blind and old people to whom she brought much happiness. Her love for music developed early in life and later studied music in Dresden, Germany, under the foremost masters of the time. She possessed uncommon ability as a pianist and later became a patron director of the Springfield Symphony Orchestra. Her love for travel took her through all of Europe, Palestine and Syria as well as extensive trips through her native U.S. Her circle of friends included a number of world famous musicians. Church and welfare activities continued up to the time of her illness.

Stebbins notes.

GRACE STEBBINS see (4395) Greenl. Stebb. Gen. Vol. 1 p. 637, was born Sept. 16, 1865. A hospital graduate, served 50 years as an Episcopal nurse. Died May 15, 1930. Unmarried. No other data. Photo on page 145.

ELIZABETH BOYDEN, Historian for Deerfield, Mass. States that in 1953 there are only two Stebbinses living in Deerfield, a town which at one time could easily have been called Stebbinsville. I think the reason is that these Yankee Stebbins are always on the new frontiers and are not to be stopped until the Pacific Ocean is facing them. It has taken the Pacific to stop a lot of them, including myself, John A. Stebbins.

From The Montgomery Advertiser, Montgomery, Alabama, Dec. 21, 1946: Russel Stebbins (1853) page 499 Vol. 1, Greenlee Stebb. Gen. Inscription on a monument in a cemetery at Blakeley, Ala.: James W. Peters Esq., died in this place Dec. 1, 1822, age 31 years, who with his partner, Russell Stebbins emigrated from New York to this country in 1816. These two gentlemen from the north commenced in the wilderness and founded the town of Blakeley. On the other side of the monument was noted the death of James Stebbins 22 (not located). This town of Blakeley which grew to threaten the supremacy of Mobile as a port, in years after the Civil War, steadily dwindled to a ghost town. One historian writes in 1897 that its site was a desolation of a few crumbling ruins. By boat its location was 10 miles up from Mobile at the junction of Tenesaw and Bayou Soline Rivers. Yellow fever scourges in this marshy region and land speculators were the factors that brought the decline and disappearance of Blakeley, once an industrious and thriving town.

Julia Stebbins is daughter of Henry Hamblin Stebbins Jr. and granddaughter of Henry Hamblin given above.

From a letter written by George Fletcher Stebbins (No. 6500). This incident taking place in his father's photo gallery, quote:

A few weeks ago an old lady came into the gallery and sat for some pictures. As my father was about to take her picture, he noticed that she began tucking her dresses under her and holding tight to her seat. On inquiring into this strange behavior she replied, Wal I herd say that thim thar machines turned people upside down, so I was preparin for you to expose me.

Stebbins notes.

Quoting — Edmund Burke.

A man who is not proud of his ancestry will never leave anything for which his posterity may be proud of him.

If you have accomplished nothing more than this, that you lived an honest and upright life, you owe no man anything, gave respect and brotherly love to all, you faced the last call with a strong heart and unflinching faith. This will make you worthy of their highest esteem. — The Author (6501)
Quoting — Daniel Webster.

Those that do not look upon themselves as a link connecting the past with the future, do not perform their duty to the world.

Silas Ray Stebbins (4409) see page 113. As a young man went to western Kansas and found a job with a wheat farmer, James Fletcher and must have been a success at the job as he married the boss's daughter, Georgia Myrtle. A short time later it became known that the Santa Fe Railroad was planning to build a line nearby. This was the birth of an idea. Silas R. bought a tent and all the supplies that their available cash would purchase and set up in business near this railroad work. As his stocks of goods were sold to the workers, they were replenished, soon he replaced the tent with a small corrugated building. Then it was, people began building homes and a little community grew to become Copeland, Kansas, with Silas Ray Stebbins its merchant with a real store and he the town's most active worker in organizing churches and filling every post that this little growing village presented. He was the head of the Masonic Lodge that came into existance there. Three sons helped with this thriving mercantile business and Copeland, like a dream, grew up from this open prairie land.

Ed Graves of Williamsburg, Mass., in his letter of March 7, 1954, tells us of finding two old brass faucets at the old homestead, Graves Homestead I presume, these faucets were marked Stebbins Mfg. Co., Chicopee, Mass. This brings up the interesting story of Erastus Stebbins (3614) who as a poor man, started in 1848 to make brass castings. His clever mind developed new ideas that he patented. The business prospered. His patents gave him control of most all of the market for brass castings and plumbing supplies. The growth of the business by 1861 required larger buildings and in that year he moved to Springfield. His products were considered the finest in America and his factory one of the leading industries of the Connecticut Valley. He retired in 1868 a successful business man, having accumulated considerable wealth. He sold the entire Mfg. business to Hayden Gere & Co. of Haydenville, Mass. One of his early inventions was a molasses gate and faucet. This patent gave him control of the market for this type of faucet. The Author remembers seeings them in use in Pennsylvania sixty years ago.

A New England Colonist.

Could we but step back into the past and live in the light of those times, having knowledge of what we have learned in the intervening years, one feels sure that we would withhold any censure of narrow mindedness, superstition or other human failings. Staunch hearted and daring to brave severe winters and unfriendly savages, faced at times by epidemics of severe illness and hunger, alone in a strange world, it took a heart of gold and a will of iron to be a pioneer in this New World.

How closely they clung to their religion and their nearness to God is expressed in the following hymns taken from Ainsworth's Psalter. Of the fugitive congregations (Separatists) many went to Holland, there to prepare and depart for the New England Colony. Accounts of their lives from thence furnishes some of the most intriguing adventures of American history. They dearly loved their native land, but the love of liberty and religious freedom was greater than loyalty to the land of their birth.

The following, written in 1612, was used by the Pilgrims and other immigrants in both Holland and England. Note the quaint spelling and enter into the spirit of these two that were used for many years in the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

JEHOVAH'S SONG HOW SING SHALL WEE
WITHIN A FORREYN PEOPLE'S LAND
JERUSALEM, IF I DOO THEE
FORGET, FORGET LET MY RIGHT HAND
CLEAV LET MY TONGUE TO MY PALAT
IF I DO NOT IN MIND THEE BEAR
IF I JERUSALEM DOO NOT
ABOVE MY CHIEFEST JOY PREFER

O BLESSED MAN, THAT DOETH NOT IN THE WICKED'S COUNCEL WALK
NOR STAND IN SYNNER'S WAY, NOR SIT
IN THE SEAT OF SCORNFUL FOLK
BUT SETTETH IN JEHOVAH'S LAW
HIS PLEASUREFUL DELIGHT
AND IN HIS LAW DOOTH MEDITATE
BY DAY AND EKE BY NIGHT

Home of Joseph Stebbins, born 1749, died 1816. Lover of Liberty, a servant of his country. Lieut. of Minute men who marched on the Lexington alarm. Capt. at the Battle of Bunker Hill, fought at Stillwater and Bemis Heights. He led a force of volunteers across the Hudson near Ft. Miller and captured an outpost in the rear of Burgoyne. Commissioned Lieut. of Militia 1788.

This was Joseph Stebbins (731) Vol. 1 pages 299-304 in Greenlee Stebbins Gen. Owned lot No. 10 in Deerfield, had several other lots that he sold. He was one of the founders of the Deerfield Academy. Purchased lot No. 39 with house in Deerfield from John Baker and Eldad Bardwell in 1799. This is the Stebbins Bardwell house shown on page 145.

Site of the old Indian house built by Ensign John Sheldon 1698, stood for 144 years testifying to the tragedy of Feb. 29, 1703-4. Its stout door which held at bay the French and Indians, is now safe in the Memorial Hall where its hatchet hewn face still tells the tale of that fateful night.

John Sheldon's wife was Hannah Stebbins (28), the woman that was shot through the hole in the door.

This marks the home lot where John Stebbins, grandson of Rowland the emigrant, a permanent settler of 1682 lived and died. A soldier under Capt. Lathrop, the only man known to have escaped unhurt at the Bloody Brook massacre, 1675, at the sacking of the town Feb. 29, 1704, his house was burned and with wife and six children, he was carried captive to Canada, his wife and son came back.

(Note) The other children that were not redeemed, grew to adulthood and became the source of the Canadian branch of the Stebbins family. John Stebbins (20) Vol. 1 pages 103 to 108, Greenlee Stebbins Genealogy. This John Stebbins at one time was called before the court for misbehaving in calling his father an old "foole" and other unseemly terms, but since full proof of such evil carriage was not established, he was released.

The unfortified house of Benoni Stebbins, standing on this lot, was held by 7 men, besides women and children, for three hours against the assault of 200 soldiers and the wiles of 140 Indians, under a French officer of the line. Stebbins was killed, Mary Hoyt and one man wounded, when forced to draw off, French had lost their Lieut. and the Indians their Chief.

Fletcher Family.

The name Fletcher, derived from the word fledger which was the trade name of an arrow maker, in English and Welsh. The first Fletcher of record, that came to the New England Colonies was William, born in England in 1622, came to Concord, Mass. (see Fletcher Gen). At present we are unable to connect up the lines of William Fletcher with this first William.

Roxanna Fletcher, who married Isaac Keeney Stebbins, was the daughter of William Fletcher and Cloe Stebbins, see family of William Fletcher, Greenlee Stebbins Gen. Vol. 1, page 338. Enos Fletcher, brother of Roxanna, was a Dartmouth graduate, a surveyor and Minister. He went to Mississippi State and in his work surveying and settling claims for homesteaders, for which he had to take land in payment, until he accumulated about four hundred thousand acres, of which he sold some. He died during the Civil War, the property going into the hands of relatives, who could not pay the taxes, thus all of it reverted to the state. Benton P. Stebbins and his son Alfred went to Miss. after the war to look into the status of the estate, but at this time it was beyond redemption. Alfred and his father stayed some time, building houses for Southern Planters. Enos Fletcher was opposed to slavery but did own one Negro man that took care of him in his old age. He never married. In those days the Minister had to preach in various places, and were called (circut riders), and traveled by horseback to each place. This from Alfred B. Stebbins, the Alfred named herein.

Abel Fletcher, a minister and inventor in 1845 at Massilon, O., invented the first photographs printed on paper, by the use of paper negatives. This notable advancement in photography ended the Daguerrotype photo. Some time later he was blinded by a laboratory explosion and invented a table with hand guide, enabling the blind to write. His daughter Lillian presented these first photos to the Los Angeles Museum. His daughter was living in Los Angeles, Calif. in 1949.

Frantz and Keener Families.

Indians capture Emma Frantz.

From a letter by Sarah J. Keener, Freeport, Pa. to John A. Stebbins in 1924.

The old stone house standing beside the Pittsburgh-McKeesport street car line, between Jeanette and Greensburg, Pa., has a significant place in the history of Pa. Few persons that have passed the old house know of the thrilling scenes that once took place on the farm on which it is located, of the bloody tragedies enacted by the Indians against the occupants of what is known as the old Shuey Homestead. This house was built in 1768, now near the modern building of the Greensburg Country Club, and is now owned by the Hon. George F. Huff, Repr. in Congress, he purchased it from Jacob Shuey a few years ago. A short time previous to the Revolution a number of Indians crossed the fields of Hannastown, the site of the first Court House in Westmoreland County, to make a raid on white settlers and were discovered approaching this old stone house, by men working in the fields. Closely pursued, they ran for the house. Mr. Frantz, who occupied the house at that time, was the first to reach it, and seizing a gun, shot his nearest pursuer. Nothing is known of the other men, but Mr. and Mrs. Frantz and their seven year old daughter Emma, were captured and when being taken away as prisoners, Mr. and Mrs. Frantz refused to go any farther than the boundaries of the farm, where upon they were put to death. The Indians took little Emma along with them to Erie County. The Chief was kind to her and during the seven years she was captive, was taken near her home many times, over trails well known to the Indians, but never had a chance to escape. Once during a time she was carrying wood she threw a piece at a dog, this so enraging a squaw that she tried to kill Emma. The Chief, being informed, tied up the squaw and later sent her to another tribe.

A white trader made trips from Pittsburgh to the Indian camp to trade for hides. When seeing this white man alone once, she asked to be taken away. Later, going with an old squaw to get water from the creek, she watched her chance and pushed the old squaw into the water and fled. The trader hid her beneath the hides and after a search by the Indians failed to find her, he took her to Pittsburgh, from there she returned to Westmoreland County. She had learned the Indian language and it was some time before she could speak her native tongue. She was born in Northhampton County Oct. 11, 1767. Married John Huber and was a grandmother of John Shrum, a great grandmother of L. L. Schuster. She died in 1836.

Frantz and Keener Families.

It is definitely known that Catherine Keener was the daughter of John Rudolph Christian Keener, who came to the American Colonies from near Geneva, Switzerland (date not known). He had a son, Christian Keener, who we believe is the one in the accompanying engraving, who was Captain in the War of 1812 at Baltimore. His brothers, Sam and David were his partners in a Wholesale Drug business. He was born in 1795. A grandson, F. P. Dunnington of University, Va., has his sword.

Catherine Keener married Isaac Frantz and had twelve children as follows. Where dates are not given they are not known. He lived in Westmoreland County, Pa. Moved to Slate Lick in Armstrong County in 1813.

1. Jacob Frantz — Married Nancy (or Agness) Forrester.
2. Abram Keener Frantz, born Aug. 26, 1811, died April 11, 1896.
3. Peter Frantz — no known data.
4. Isaac Frantz — Married Betsy Camp.
5. Susan Frantz — Married Thomas Mathews.
6. Lydia Frantz — Married John Doutt.
7. Sarah Frantz — Married George Burger.
8. Elizabeth (Betsy) — Unmarried, no data.
9. Catherine Frantz — Married Jacob Frantz, no data.
10. Mary Frantz — Married John McCormick. See McCormick family.
11. Margaret Frantz — Married George McCormick. See McCormick family.
12. Amy Frantz — Married John Scott, no data.

JACOB FRANTZ, first of the above family, married Nancy or Agness Forrester. No data.

Children

1. Mary and 2. Jane, two daughters that died in their youth.

3. Anna Mary. Married Hiram Shafer and had one daughter, Agness who married Stewart Stone and lived in Butler, Pa. in 1925.

4. James F. Frantz, unmarried, was a Civil War soldier, in Cavalry, died in hospital at Martinsburg, Virginia.

5. Janett Frantz, died at age of seven. No data.

6. Margaret D. Frantz, died at the age of 73 years. Married Frank Brown and had three children. No other data.

7. William C. Frantz, born 1853, father of six children and lived on part of the old farm at Slate Lick, Pa. in 1925.

8. John Scott Frantz, married Josephine Bricker and had three children, lived in Sharon, Pa. in 1925.

9. Stephen A. Frantz, married Lydia McOwen, they had three children, lived on the old homestead at Slate Lick, Pa. in 1925.

All data on these Frantz families given to me by Anna Mary, No. 3. Note: The children of Isaac Frantz and Catherine Keener were not given in their proper order, no dates available.

Frantz Family.

ABRAM KEENER FRANTZ named second of the family of Catherine Keener and Isaac Frantz, was born Aug. 25, 1811 in Westmoreland County, Pa., died April 11, 1896. Moved with parents to Slate Lick, Armstrong County in 1813, married Mary M. Camp Oct. 8, 1835, moved to Minnesota where they lived ten years, returning to Pa., lived near Chicora until his death. Mary Camp was born Nov. 10, 1814. Died Aug. 21, 1901, age 87 years. Graves near Chicora, Pa.

Children

1. Vianna, born Aug. 26, 1836.
2. William K., born May 13, 1838.
3. Hiram, born April 16,1840.
4. Lucinda, born Sept. 3, 1842, married a Mr. George.
5. Catherine, born Dec. 16, 1844.
6. Matilda, born Feb. 14, 1847.
7. Oliver E., born Nov. 12, 1849.
8. Sara E., born March 11, 1852.
9. Abner, born Oct. 30, 1855.
10. Mary Elmira, born April 7, 1858.

All died previous to 1923, except Lucinda, Oliver and Mary.

LYDIA FRANTZ, named sixth child of Isaac Frantz and Catherine Keener. Married John Dout or Doutt. No data, number of children not known. A daughter, Ellen married Peter Toy and lived in the Walk Chalk area near Kittanning, Pa. There were seven children in the Toy family, most of them living in the vicinity of Kittanning, Pa. Their names were Charles, Edward, James, Dolly, Albert, William and a boy that died young.

SARAH FRANTZ, named seventh child of Isaac Frantz and Catherine Keener. Born about 1822, died Feb. 10. 1894, married George Burger in Sept., 1844, George died March 20, 1889. Lived at Slate Lick, Pa.

Children

1. Isaac Frantz Burger, married Mary McGuire and had seven children..
2. Mary E. Burger, died Jan. 5, 1913, married George McDonald, had eight children.
3. George Keener Burger, died June 30, 1921, unmarried.

5. Catherine Annie Burger, married Fredrick Price, no children.
6. David L. Burger, married Jessie L. Glazier, had two children.
7. Samuel F. Burger, married Anna Haas, had two children.

There were several Toy families near Walk Chalk, of early settlers, called Pennsylvania Dutch.

APPENDIX

Traditions of the Frantz Family.

Copy of a letter from William Frantz of 54 Morgan Blvd., New Orleans, La. to Anna Mary Smith who was Anna Mary Frantz, daughter of Jacob Frantz, who married second to Smith.

March 5, 1924

Mrs. Anna M. Smith
Butler, Pa.

Dear Madam,

Your very appreciated favor reached me on the later part of December when I was convalescing from a serious illness that overtook me in the early part of last November and while I have not as yet gained my normal condition, am thankful to God that I can be about and attend to my affairs. Was hardly able to be about when one of my son in laws underwent a very serious operation and is still in a rather critical condition. So you readily understand why you did not hear from me more promptly in answer to your favor.

As to our ancestors, only know our family traditions that have come down from generation to generation, which are as follows. Our ancestors were Huguenots from the southern part of France where the Reformation under Calvin spread extensively, but were persecuted under Louis XIV, a number fled to Keller near Saarbrucken, Germany. After the thirty year war, Alsace was almost depopulated, when the Duke of Nassu (to whom the section from which we came belonged) brought a number of farmers and mechanics from Germany to repopulate Alsace, among them were your forefathers who were wall and church tower clock makers. There are still a number of church tower clocks in our section of Alsace, made by your forefathers. I have one of their wall clocks which I have altered into a hall clock. The name of our forefathers was Franc but changed to Frantz when living in Germany. When the Black Forest clock industry developed, they could not compete and became village blacksmiths which they are still today.

I just want to say that I am very proud of my ancestry as Huguenots and am a Calvinist and am with my family an active member of the Presbyterian Church, am the older Elder in years and ordination in our Presbytery, and hope and pray that my posterity never forget what their ancestors suffered and sacrificed for them to enjoy their religious privileges and freedom.

If you find it convenient to favor me with an answer, let me know where the Frantz-Keener Reunion will be held, and place and time, when either my brother or myself will try to be present.

With kind regards, I remain,

William Frantz

McCormick Family.

The name McCormick is spelled both Mac and Mc, both being Scotch and Irish designations for (son of). The name is an ancient one deriving from the word Corb, which means a chariot, thus the meaning of the name McCormick is, The Son of A Charioteer. The McCormick family were originally in Scotland and branches migrated to Ireland, located most of them in Tipperary County. One branch of the family traces its lineage back to Saint David of Scotland. Henry McCormick, first of this line, born in Ireland, it is safe to assume that he came from Tipperary County, where many of the family lived.

Henry McCormick was born (about 1798-1803) in Ireland, came to America and settled near Girty, Penn. Married Rebecca (————), married second (not known). Children, first two and perhaps all born at Girty. Later may have lived at South Bend, Pa.

Children

1. John, born Dec. 25, 1823, married Mary Frantz.
2. George — see page 167. Married Margaret Frantz.
3. Joseph, married Annie Barnes of Chicago, Ill.
4. Elizabeth, married (———) Turney of South Bend, Pa.
5. Sarah, married George Michels of Mercer, Pa.
6. Milton, born of 2nd marriage, married Elizabeth Truby.

Landis Family.

Rev. Benjamin Landis, a Mennonite preacher, a member of the family, of which one was beheaded in the vicinity of the Rhine during the persecution of the Mennonites, came to America from Switzerland in the year 1718, with him his son Benjamin, aged 18. In America he bought 240 acres of land from the Conestoga Indians, about four miles from the present city of Lancaster, Pa., on which Landisville is now located.

Samuel Landis, the one noted here, is said to be a descendent of this Benjamin, and was born at or near Landisville. Since there is no genealogy of all the Landis family, I have been unable to connect his line with Benjamin's. Samuel Landis spoke Swiss and German. Samuel Landis had a brother Abraham, who was the father of Judge Kennesaw and Fredrick Landis. Kennesaw was the noted Baseball Commissioner, Fredrick Landis was a Congressman from the 2nd Dist., Newspaper Columnist and Author. Fredrick Landis died Nov. 15, (----) at Logansport, Ind., aged sixty two years. Kennesaw married Winifred Reed of Ottawa, Ill. in 1895 and had three children, Col. Reed Gresham Landis, an Air Ace of W. W. 1, a daughter Sue Ann, who married a Mr. Phillips and had a daughter, Joan Landis Phillips. They lived at Glencoe, Ill., the third is a son, Kennesaw Mountain Landis II. Judge K. Landis was born at Millville, O., Nov. 20, 1866. Died Nov. 24, 1944 at Chicago.

Samuel Landis was born in 1792, died 1878 at or near Ogle, Pa. Married Salome Zeigler, who was born in 1792, died 1878, came with her parents from Northumberland or Northhampton County, Pa. to Harmony, Pa. where they bought land from the Economites. She had 2 brothers, Jacob Zeigler of Harmony, Pa. and John Zeigler of Iowa. Her two sisters were Nancy, who married Latshaw of Franklin, Pa., and Elizabeth, who married Baker, of Newcastle. Samuel Landis had a sister who married a Mr. Musselman. Do not know of any other brothers or sisters. The children of Samuel Landis and Salome Zeigler are,

John, married — not known

Sam, married Miss Kirk

Betsy, married a Mr. Sneathen

Lydia, married John Emmel

Sarah, married B. P. Stebbins

Fanny, married William Gearing

Abe, married — not known

Joe, married Matilda Fowler

Nancy, married Mr. Vandervort

Eva, married Mr. Haines

Mary, married Mr. Bolyard

Margaret, married Mr. Vandervort

John Emmel, known to have a daughter Fanny who married a Mr. Rice, a son Samuel — no data. Others in this family not known. Mr. Rice a retired RR engineer lived in Pomona, Calif. in 1938. Fanny Landis was born Feb. 5, 1838, died in 1894. Married May 5, 1860 to William Gearing, a Blacksmith, they had a son, Charles W. Gearing living in Grapeville, Pa. in 1894, also a daughter living at home in 1894. If others—not known. Taken from local newspaper.

Betsy Landis who married Sneathen, died Sept. 25, 1900 at Natrona, Pa. This from her daughter, Mrs. Nicholas Hookey of Natrona, Pa.

Reece Family.

The old Reece house (from the Springfield Union, Nov. 11, 1906)

One of the oldest and most famous houses of New England is the Reece homestead at Williamsburg, Mass. Built by Elisha Ellis in 1760, it has been scarcely changed by repairs. On a foundation of solid stone, huge hand hewn timbers, held in place by maple pins, without nails except large hand wrought iron spikes, it has withstood the ravages of time, Indians and wild bears. This is perhaps the first house erected in Williamsburg, which grew up around it. The great brick chimney with clay mortar and large fireplace, are in harmony with the massive beams that support the nine foot ceilings, giving little suggestion that the house was at one time a station in the underground railroad. In unauspicious closets, movable floor boards give entrance to secret hiding places, while in the attic under the floor are box-like spaces that gave security to inmates hiding from Indians and later refugee slaves that escaped to the sympathetic north.

Twenty years after its completion it served as a parsonage for Rev. Strong, Pastor of the first church, which was built on this farm, thus giving the name to the place—Meeting House Hill. It was during one of Rev. Strong's sermons that a horseback messenger brought the news of the fall of Fort Ticonderoga and of Burgoyne's march through the Colonies, that turned the church services into a recruiting session in which fifty men under Capt. Fairfield, joined the country's defense.

This old house, around which the Indians prowled, has stood while others, with the old church and school house, which was also used as a church for several years, passed out of existance. It was here that Joshua Thayer was paid 15 shillings to blow a big conch shell to call the early settlers to meetings or church services. Near here was the old Militia training grounds that conjure up visions of the patriots of those thrilling times. Ruben Reece owned the house from 1888 until his death in 1906. This house now close to thriving communities, is a living link to the historic past and could it give voice to those stirring scenes enacted within its walls it would furnish a drama of early American life. (I now learn that it burned in 1940.)

Ruben George Reese, son of Joseph Reece and Elizabeth Tucker, was born Jan. 1, 1840 at Birmingham, England. Died Aug. 23, 1906 at Williamsburg, Mass., grave in Bridge St. Cemetery, Northhampton. Married Ann Matilda Warner who was born Jan. 8, 1847, died July 17, 1884 at Greenfield, Mass., grave at Northhampton. She was the daughter of Lorenza Warner and Charlotte Whiting. Graves of Joseph Reece and Elizabeth Tucker also in the Bridge St. Cemetery, Northhampton, Mass. Ruben G. Reece was a skilled tool maker, he later retired and went to farming. Lived in the big Reece home until his death.

William Pynchon — born 1590 — died 1662.

One of the prominent members of the party to which the charter of Massachusetts Bay Company was granted to William Pynchon, who came with John Winthrop, the wealthy Puritan from Groton, England in 1630. Winthrop became the first resident Governor. Pynchon, a man of great energy and integrity, rose to a high position in the Colony. He led a small party into the Connecticut Valley and founded a new settlement which was named Springfield in honor of Mr. Pynchon's home town in England. Rowland Stebbins was an intimate friend of Mr. Pynchon and soon became a property owner in his new settlement. Pynchon's untimely publication of his book, the (Meritorious Price Of Our Redemption) which was in opposition to the Calvinictic view of that time, brought him trouble, a charge of Heresy and an order to appear before the General Court. This treatment caused him to go back to England, never returned to the Colony. His son John succeeded him and during his successful career laid out the towns of Hadley, Deerfield, Hatfield, Northfield and Westfield. John Pynchon built the first brick house in the Connecticut Valley.

William Pynchon, before his death published several books, one of them, "The Covenant of Nature," made with Adam.

APPENDIX

The Landis, Frantz, Keener, Keeney or Kinney, Quick, Voorhees, Sneathen and several other families were of Dutch, German, and Swiss German origin and it would be difficult to determine to which of the three one could definitely place them as several families were in all of them at various times. In Pennsylvania they were called Pennsylvania Dutch, a name that clings to them to the present time. There were a large number of them throughout the state. Hardy, industrious and virtuous, they endowed our American character with many of its finest qualities.

In recognition of our Pennsylvania Dutch it is appropriate that we close this book with these words that were so fervently uttered in their lowly houses of worship, in the early days of our country, when prayers were often interrupted by the war cry of savages and the rush to arms, to ward off death by the hands of the Red man. In our present day security it is difficult to realize the strenuous life of our early pioneers. Do we feel grateful for their sacrifices?

The following is the Lord's Prayer in Dutch.

ONZE VADER, DIE IN HEMEL ZIJT

UW NAAM WORDE ZEHEILGD

UW KONINGRIJK KOME

UW WIL GESCHIEDE GELIJK IN DEM HEMEL ZOO OOK OP AARDE!

GEEF ONS HEDEN ONS DAAGLYKSCH BROOD!

EN VERGEEF ONS ONZE SCHULDEN GELIJK OOK WIJ VER-GIVEN

ONZEN SCHULDENAREN

EN LEID ONS NEIT IN VERZOEKING, MAAR VERLOS ONS VARA

DEN BOOZE

WANT UW IS HET KONINGRIJK EN DE KRACH, EN DE

HEERLIJKHEID TOT IN EEUWIGHEID.

AMEN
